U.S. Fleet Directed To Prevent Any Attack On Formosa

U.S. Will Seek U.N. Sanctions In Korean War

Will Press For Action Against North Koreans

(BULLETIN)

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., June 27 (INS)—The United States announced that it will present an important resolution on Korea to the U.N. Security Council this afternoon.

The resolution is expected to ask approval of sanctions against the Korean Communists. Unofficial reports at Lake Success say the United States may ask approval for direct military intervention, including bombing by U.S. planes of areas seized by the attacking Communists.

However, the resolution is not expected to include the use of American troops in Korea.

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., June 27 -The United States will press today for UN sanctions against the North Korean Communists despite indications that South Korean resistance faces early collapse.

The extent to which the U.S. may be planning to intervene militarily, politically and economically in the Korean crisis is expected to be made known partially in this afternoon's meeting of the Security Council.

To Present Views

U.S. Representative Warren R. Austin will present the latest views of the American government. He is in a position to speak with authority on President Truman's plans and those of Secretary of State Acheson as the result of an emergency trip to Washington of his deputy. Ambassador Ernest A.

State Department returned from all-day conferences with top-level officials in Washington and briefed Austin on the immediate steps the United States is anxious to take in Korea. The primary factor in this is the awareness that the Security Council must expect defiance from the Korean Communists of the Sunday edict ordering a cease-fire and immediate withdrawal to the 38th parallel.

SOONER OR LATER

A man, if he is wise, discovers that business life is a mixture of good days and bad, victory and defeat, give and take. He learns that it doesn't pay to be a sensitive soul, that he should let some things go over his head like water off a duck's back. He learns that all men have burnt toast for breakfast now and then, and that he shouldn't take the other fellows grouch too seriously. He learns that carrying a chip on his shoulder, is the easiest way to get into a fight. He learns that it doesn't matter who gets the credit, so long as the business shows a profit. He comes to realize that the business could run along perfectly well without him.

EIGHTY SEPARATE ITEMS

More than eighty separate tasks must be performed by a funeral director when he arranges a service. Each of these requires time and professional skill; many of them pass unnoticed by clients, yet they are essential if the service is to be a fitting tribute to the departed.

We are proud of the fact that not one of these countless items is neglected when we serve a client, regardless of the cost involved. And it is a particular merit of this organization that we maintain the same high standards regardless of the financial status of those we serve.

WATCH HIM

A large proportion of the populace will take to motor cars for trips to points far and near over the long week-end. Highways will carry more than their normal volume of traffic. Many drivers will be careless, some because of high spirits incities among mankind. But he also dent to a holiday, others because they are habitually unthinking when behind a steering wheel. A few will be under the influence of liquor.

Most drivers are responsible and obey all the rules of safe driving as a matter of custom. In the next four days an unusual burden will be upon them. It is the necessity of watching their place in ultra-nationalism, not only their own driving but that of others. The selfish isolationism, extreme conservatism motorist depends upon others yielding to him. And yielding, regardless of how irksome because of the crass disregard of today. one's rights, is the only way to promote safety. The meek in traffic have a better chance of getting home alive than do the aging, although perhaps far from

It will be especially important to watch the other driver this traffic-jammed week-end. It is imperative that every driver be prepared for any hare-brained highway maneuver.

SHOULD FIND DISASTER CLAUSE

Another terrible air tragedy—the worst to date in the western hemisphere—has plunged the nation into a gloom that cannot be dispelled by all the statistical reports proving Minister Attlee, is in a state of that commercial air travel is becoming safer year by year.

There are a number of factors in the loss of the DC-4 Northwest Airlines plane with all 58 persons aboard that, in the broadest interest of aviation, make it particularly import- the Schuman plan conference in ant that the wreckage be found and the cause of the disaster definitely established

Here was a plane of a type which, over a period of years, has demonstrated its ruggedness and reliability. It was operat ing on a scheduled flight, manned by competent personnel. There is, as yet, little evidence of a mechanical failure and no indication—apart from the presence of an electrical storm in The Parent the area—that the trip was other than routine.

Yet the plane, suddenly disappeared as it crossed Lake Problem Michigan late Friday night en route from New York to Minneapolis.

Whatever the cause of the disaster, it is of the utmost importance that methods be devised to guard against repetitions.

END OF CHIVALRY

The age of chivalry is finally over. This is not to imply bereft family of money needed for that men are no longer opening doors or picking up handker- carrying on. chiefs for women. Reference is to the old meaning of the word chivalry, which came from the Frence Cheval for horse.

Throughout history, until this century, the accountered or hospital or some other comman on a horse has been the symbol of dashing leadership in munity cause war. In modern American cities the mounted policeman has survived as a gallant fellow. The object of girlish admiration, he has only recently acquired enemies. He's a Cossack to the commies when he tries to break up a riot.

But now, see what's happened. The House of Congress has P.T.A. so often aims to have the approved a bill to strip the word cavalry from the horseless clergy of different faiths proarmored branch of the army. And in Philadelphia the mounted police will be disbanded within the next few months.

No more will military lapels gleam with the cross-saber insignia of the U. S. Cavalry. No more in Philly will a proud group of blue-uniformed riders wear that small horse's head the question of many flowers at on their collars.

Cadets at the Military Academy at West Point, burial appealed to me place of Custer, are no longer taught to ride. The only horseflesh at The Point is three mules. Two of 'em are in active service for you know what big games. The third is a colt, being Talmud, and from Josephus, we raised to the same tradition.

DEMANDING RECOUNT

Johnstown, Pa., is dissatisfied with what came out of the recent census as far as Johnstown is concerned, and city coun- nancially at a disadvantage. cil has asked Rep. John P. Saylor to demand another count. According to the census, the number of dwelling units in Johnstown increased by 1,050 since 1940, while the population set a proper example, Rabbi Gaof the city declined from 66,688 to 62,723.

This anomaly has been apparent in census statistics for other cities as released day by day-always with the explanation that "these figures are tentative and subject to correction." Billions of dollars of taxpayers' money has been appropriated by Congress to provide housing, and one of the arguments whenever there is debate in Congress on these handouts is that many families have been forced to double up. If that is so, why is the number of dwelling units increasing while women. They stay with the dying

Pre-Christian Era

The burial customs as practiced by traditional Jews today go back to the pre-Christian era. From the learn that in very ancient times people vied with each other in lavish and costly ceremonies. Funerals thus often came to be very expensive burdens to the survivors, especially those who were fitimes, the dead were even serted by their kin who could not afford an expensive fumeral.

Ask Me Another (By HOLMES ALEXANDER)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 27.-You like to see Congressional investigation committees put plenty of pep into their work, but this Buchanan Committee on Lobby Activity-I dunno. It's pretty hard to applaud the way Buchanan unbuttons a witness unless you believe that the famous phrase about "life, liberty and pursuit of happiness" should be amended to read "life in a goldfish bowl" His star witness of late has been a man named Merwin K. Hart, president of the National Economic Council, Inc. Mr. Hart is a pale man with flaming prejudices against the Tru Deal. A lot of people will think that Mr. Hart is a bit odd but I'm not sure that gives Buchanan the right to frisk him like a common crook. There ought to be some privacy left.

Turned Over The Papers

Earlier this month Buchanan sent some employes of the committee to Mr. Hart's office in the Empire State Building. They demanded access to his files. Mr. Hart says he didn't exactly "refuse," he just 'hesitated" to comply. Anyhow, Buchanan then threw his Sunday punch-a subpoena-and Mr. Hart turned over the papers. Some of the information there got out to radio commentators even before it reached Republican members of the committee, The rest of it, including names of 13 business firms which contribute to Mr. Hart's activities, have now been spread upon the record. Perhaps this is proper. Mr. Hart is a registered lobbyist, and Congress has a right to know who pays him. But you get the idea that all this is supposed to be a warning not to lobby against such Tru Deal measures as public housing, free medicine, civil rights and the like. It's a fact that at least two of Mr. Hart's industrial contributors have broken off relations with him. They have taken the warning against opposing these measures rather than have any trouble from liberal rivals and labor groups.

Goes Through His Papers

Next, Buchanan had his staff go through Mr. Hart's papers and make a list of the things which Mr. Hart is for and against. The pros and cons were listed in parallel columns and made available to the press. It isn't that Mr. Hart objected to standing up and being counted. He likes that. But when you stand up to be counted, you like to do so on your own terms. You don't like paid employes of a hostile committee to digest your thoughts

For instance, the mimeographed sheet listed Mr. Hart as being against the "policies" of the Episcopal Church. Well, what does that mean? Is he against 3-hour sermons? Is he against the all-male choir? The fact is that Mr. Hart is a staunch churchman, a vestryman of his home parish. If he takes issue with some attitude of his own churchwhose business is that?

My own list of what I'm against wouldn't correspond with Mr Hart's list. He's against the United Nations, Zionism, the Marshall Plan and a good many other postwar developments which look good to me. But it's hard to see that the public display of a citizen's opinions has anything to do with House Res. 298 which called for a study of lobbying methods.

Made To Read A Piece

In the course of his testimony Mr. Hart was made to read a piece he'd once written about the right of citizens to possess firearms. It's Mr. Hart's opinion that many of the present laws tend to disarm everybody except the lawless and the vicious. He prefers a gun-toting population which can protect itself against Communist rough-stuff like the Peekskill riot, and he calls attention to the Constitution which provides that "the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed." Mr. Hart's point, of course, is pretty belabored, and this is an exampleof queer thinking, if you will. But again-whose business is that?

There are a number of moves on Capitol Hill to investigate the investigations. One group of Senators want to probe the Tydings probe of Amerasia. A group of Representatives wants to quiz the Buchanan quiz of lobbyists. Well, it's a good idea. But who's going to interrogate the final interrogators?

East Brook Campers Have Busy Schedule

The Sunday schedule at the YWCA East Brook camp proved to be a full, and varied one for the girl campers. Breakfast was enjoyed at 8:30 a. m., after which cabin capers were completed. After a free period the girls prepared for church.

Church services were conducted at 11 a.m., and Becky Falls gave the scall to worship. The scripture lessons were read by Barbara Newton. A nature poem was read by Louise Timblim. Marston Whieldon sang a solo, "The Lord's Prayer." A turkey dinner, complete with ice cream dessert was the noon meal. An hour and a half rest period followed and then the girls had a refreshing dip in the pool. They returned to their cabins and occupied the time in making cabin floats. A hike was planned and a feed bag enjoyed. Later the floats were placed in the swimming pool and floated, with each girl telling what camp life meant to

HELPERS

NEW YORK-(INS)-Thanks to electrical energy, the average facworker now has the equivalent of 13 full-time assistants to help him earn his daily bread. It's a matter of horsepower as well as manpower, says E. C. Brodin, director of manufacturing research for SKF Industries, Inc. American factories have installed horsepower of 18,000,000, and there are 14,000,000 industrial workers in the country. Since one horsepower is mathematically equivalent to 10 working men, that gives the average man at the machine the aid of 13 other "men".

We spent a chilly weekend in the high country, patrolling an abandoned railway trace for birds and mountain flowers, and splashing through the sphagnum in a remote mountain bog. When the flying clouds obscured the sun I was actually cold on that highlevel flatland, even though the calendar stood midway in June. A driving breeze worked steadily and didn't add to the day's enjoyment, but the bracing, tonic air and the clear, far vistas more than made but the bracing, tonic air and the clear, far vistas more than made

Gorgeous Grosbeak

In an open area near a sandstone quarry I caught a gorgeous rose-breasted grosbeak full in the glasses atop a dead snag. He sat there admiring himself for a long time, singing his song which is very much like the robin's. A good look at this striking grosbeak in his chosen timberland makes any trip afield worth while. He is one of the most beautiful birds of the countryside.

Shortly after the grosbeak went elsewhere I made the acquaintance of a little brown bird which I had never seen before. We were en-

But the most colorful blossoms and the sweetest perfumes of the day were those paraded by the lovely pinxter-flower, the wild azalea of the rocky high country. While I stood with my eager nose buried deep in the crimson pink blossoms, a blue jay spoke out in the treetops overhead, the clouds scudded across to accent the June sundown, and the blustering breeze dropped to a mere whisper.

As we followed the narrow mour

Senators Split Twin Bill With Youngstown, Lose 3-1, Win 4-3

Danny Dondero Delivers Game Winning Hit In 8th

Danny Dondero, the Senators' star second baseman, delivered a sizzling line drive double, in the last of the eighth inning, of the night-cap last night, giving the Senators a 4-3 win, over the Youngstown Athletics, after the visitors had won the opener 3-1.

As things turned out, the hustling young Senators, despite the split with their rivals, failed to gain or lose any ground as both Erie and Oil City split twin bills, leaving the locals three and a half games in front of the Mid-Attlantic league heap.

Stan Zedalis, was the loser in the first game, a seven-inning affair, giving up eight hits and three runs in the five innings he worked. Herb Churchill finished. Zedalis now has a (5-6) record for the year. Frank Wagner the veteran, won his fifth game in the nightcap thanks to Dondero. Wagner gave up seven hits, but kept them scattered, one was a homer in the fifth by Joe Wisneski.

Wagner pitched a steady game, never allowing more than two hits or one run in any inning. Both Zedalis and Wagner were given sensational support in the field by their mates. Butler Here Friday Bob Bassler had the Senators handcuffed in the first game on his Dondero was credited with a double, advanced to third on the throw in and scored on the error by Higgins. Wagner handcuffed the Athletics in the top if the ninth and the game was over.

Youngstown scored all three of their runs in the first game off Zedalis in the fourth inning-on doubles by Rinker and Singleton a single by Caravello and a triple by Wisneski, all this happening after two were out on a beautifully executed double play on the first two men to face Zedalis in the
